LANSBURGH & BRO

THERE IS A STYLE FOR EVERY WOMAN IN OUR UNRIVALLED SHOWING OF

Silk and Lingerie Waists at $1.95

Go elsewhere and you cannot find the variety of new waists at the low price of $1.95 as are here. Every style is new—every material the best that such money can procure, and many of the models are copied from waists that sell at two and three times the price asked for these.

The silk waists are washable and in plain colors, or floral and figured designs, with collar to match, or of white, some of striped silks, with either round collar or the turn-over stock. All sizes in every style.

The Lingerie Waists are of the finest lawn, crepe and French voiles, smart low collars cut round, square, or pointed; others in the popular Gladstone effect, with handsome trimmings of German, shadow and Venice laces; some all-over embroidered models.

Every Waist fashioned in this season's most popular models, and many confined to us exclusively in Washington.

Special sale and display today on Main Floor Bargain Tables and Second Floor New Enlarged Waist Section.

WOMAN'S NAME IN WRIGHT INQUIRY

Committee Hears of Alleged Visits of Mrs. Rauscher to His Chambers.

JUDGE CARRIED PISTOL

Easby-Smith Says Client Objected to Trial Before Justice—Carmody Paid Divorcee Calls.

The alleged visits of the then Mrs. Rene C. Rauscher to the private chambers of Associate Justice Daniel Thew Wright, at the District Supreme Court, while her divorce suit was pending, along with many alleged acts of the justice on and off the bench were recounted before the House subcommittee yesterday by Attorney James E. Easby-Smith, counsel for Mrs. Rauscher. Mr. Smith was on the stand the whole day, and Attorney J. J. Darlington, Justice Wright's counsel, cross-examined him at length without shaking his testimony.

The witness, who was counsel for Mr. Rauscher, the defendant, said he asked for a removal of the case from Justice Wright's court because his client feared he could not get a fair trial before him in view of the alleged visits of Mrs. Rauscher to the justice's chambers.

The attorney also testified to certain alleged alterations by Judge Wright in his charge to the jury in a suit brought by one James Barry.

Order Without Notice.

The attorney said he knew nothing that would justify belief that there was anything improper in the relation between the litigant and Judge Wright, but that he felt he must ask for the transfer of the case to another court. Mr. Easby-Smith said the judge at first declined, but later certified the transfer to the court of Judge Gould.

"Mr. Easby-Smith asked if it would be agreeable to hear the case in open court and I agreed," said he. "He asked if Judge Wright would be agreeable as a judge, and I said of course."

"Picking up the court record one morning I noticed an order had been issued limiting my time to September 15. I had not had the customary advance notice to file testimony by that time and I was rather angry. I went over to see Ambrose and asked what he meant by getting the order without any notice to me."

"Mr. Ambrose said it was not his fault and asked me not to blame him. He said Judge Wright had sent for him to write that order and he had written it, everything except the date. Judge Wright had filled in the date and the order was filed," he testified.

"Ambrose and I went to Judge Wright and told him we had decided to go ahead with the case. At the same time Ambrose announced he was going to withdraw from the case."

Mrs. Rauscher at Door.

Congressman Real wanted to know if the attitude of Judge Wright was mentioned when Ambrose withdrew.

"I do not know whether to give hearsay evidence," said Mr. Easby-Smith, "but Ambrose has said several times since that some feeling had been caused between Judge Wright and himself, because he would not stay in the case."

"George H. Macdonald, who succeeded Mr. Ambrose as Mrs. Rauscher's counsel, said he would not be ready to argue the case on the 20th. Judge Barnard insisted on the case going to trial the next day and the testimony of plaintiff and defendant was read. Judge Barnard told Mr. Macdonald to go ahead with the argument. I noticed that Louis Carmody, private secretary to Judge Wright, was in the court room."

"As Macdonald began his argument Carmody went up and spoke to him and Macdonald said:

"Judge Wright has sent for me; I would like to be excused for a few minutes."

"Judge Barnard said he would excuse Macdonald if he was desired by an associate justice. As Macdonald got to the door, he said:

"It is not about this case, your honor."

"Mr. Macdonald came back in about five minutes, and said he wanted to move to dismiss Mrs. Rauscher's bill. I objected to a dismissal without an agreement as to the payment of costs by her. As I left the courtroom with my associate, Mr. Flehardy, we saw Mrs. Rauscher and Carmody standing at the entrance to Judge Wright's chambers."

"After recess it was agreed that the bill might be dismissed. Mrs. Rauscher to pay the taxable costs."

No Insinuation Meant.

"I went to Judge Wright and asked him to certify the case to the chief justice, sitting in Court No. 1."

"Judge Wright asked why I wanted the case transferred to Circuit Court No. 1, and I told him that the chief justice had previously decided some of the points of law in this matter, and it would save time if Justice Claiborne heard it. Judge Wright said that was not sufficient grounds."

"I then told Judge Wright that my client said he could not get a fair trial before him. The judge said that was wrong and that my client had no grounds for such a belief."

"I told him that my client knew and that I knew that Mrs. Rauscher had been frequently to his chambers. Judge Wright asked if I intended to insinuate any impropriety of any kind, and I told him I did not. I said, however, that it was a matter of common knowledge and report that Mrs. Rauscher had been about his chambers a good deal."

"I also told Judge Wright that we knew that his secretary, Carmody, visited Mrs. Rauscher frequently, and had busied himself in both the cases between the Rauschers, and that my client did not feel he could get a fair trial under the circumstances."

"I also told Judge Wright that my client knew of the connection Frank Hall had had with the case; he had busied himself in Mrs. Rauscher's behalf, and through Hall, I said, Mrs. Rauscher had been sent to Ambrose, and he was known to be a friend of the judge."

"Judge Wright asked me if I would make these statements in the presence of counsel, and when I said I would, Attorneys Macdonald and Leonard J. Mather, who has come into the case, were sent for. Ambrose had withdrawn in both cases."

Messrs. Macdonald, Mather, and myself met in Judge Wright's chambers, and I started to repeat my statements about Judge Claiborne's previous knowledge of the case and the view of my client. Judge Wright said he had decided to certify the case, although the suspicions of my client were not justified. He told us to come into court and take the order of transfer."

the case to court No. 1 and Judge Wright said:

"Mrs. Rauscher Objects."

"I am not going to certify the case because it has been communicated to me that Mrs. Rauscher objects to hearing the case before the chief justice."

"I said I would move in open court for the transfer, but I did not want to say the things I had said to the judge in chambers. Judge Wright told me to go ahead and say them, and after I stated he interrupted me with the statement:

"I am willing to certify this case to any judge except the chief justice."

"An agreement was then reached, at the suggestion of Attorney Mather, that the case go to Justice Gould. It is still on the calendar."

"Was Judge Wright legally advising her, you think?" asked one of the committee.

"I have no knowledge of that. I have no doubt some of Mr. Macdonald's actions in the case were advised by Judge Wright."

"What were the rumors about Mrs. Rauscher going to the chambers of Judge Wright?"

"I will answer if I have to, but I do not think rumors constitute evidence. I do not mean to intimate or charge there was anything improper, but the fact that she was seen there often, and Carmody busied himself in the case, justified me in asking for a transfer of the case."

Carmody an Old Friend.

Beginning cross-examination, Attorney Darlington asked:

"Did you know that Carmody was an old friend and schoolmate of Mrs. Rauscher?" asked Mr. Darlington, upon cross-examination of Mr. Easby-Smith.

"No sir, I did not," replied Mr. Easby-Smith.

"At what season of the year did you see Mrs. Rauscher at the judge's chambers?"

"My recollection is that I saw her there during the spring of 1912, and during the two or three months preceding the taking of the testimony. I saw her around there more than once in the summer time. I don't recall now whether it was when Judge Wright was holding his vacation term or not. I also saw her around there in the autumn and winter of that year."

"You stated that Mr. Ambrose was getting out of the case because it was a rotten case," asked Chairman McCoy.

"Yes, he did," replied Mr. Easby-Smith.

"Did he give any reason for his characterization of the case as a rotten case, and did he use Judge Wright's name in the case, and if so, what reason did he give?"

"He said that it was a rotten case, and a frame-up, that it was too rotten for him, and that he wouldn't stand for it."

"Did he refer simply to the testimony or to the frame-up itself as being rotten?"

"Both, I think."

"Did he connect Judge Wright's name in any way with the characterization of the case as a frame-up?"

"No, sir, he did not."

Mr. Easby-Smith said he had a photograph of the corrected charge showing that a number of words had been changed. That he would not contend that the changes made in the charge by Judge Wright were alone sufficient to prevent reversal by the higher court, but he did insist that the charge should go in the bill of exceptions as it had been delivered by the judge."

Breach of Court Usage.

Mr. Easby-Smith then related an incident wherein he said Judge Wright had permitted Attorney J. H. Woodward to include in a bill of exceptions an exception he had not made at the time it should have been entered.

This was the agreement of Mr. Woodward not to take advantage of it in the court of Appeals. The case, as affirmed, he said, so it did not affect the result."

"Have you ever seen Judge Wright carry a weapon?"

"I think I have seen him with a gun, but I think under the circumstances he ought to have carried it then. It was while the Gompers case was on, and there had been threats and perhaps some crank might have done something. I saw him shift a pistol from his desk to his pocket."

"Were you aware the Department of Justice had detailed three men to guard Judge Wright at that time?" asked Mr. Darlington.

"No, but I say if I had been in Judge Wright's case, I would have carried a pistol, too."

ECZEMA ITCHED AND BURNED

So Badly, Scratched and Made Sore, Could Not Sleep at Night. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured in Little Over a Week.

Crofton, Ky.—"There was a little pimple came just above my knee. It festered and I picked it and in a few more days I found that they were thick on me from my waist down. They kept getting larger until some were as large as common-sized buttons. The eczema itched and burned so badly that I scratched and made it sore. If I got out in the hot sun, I would swell and it made the breaking out burn. Part of the time I could not sleep at night."

"I used — and some powder and I used some salve called — and several other things but none were successful, suffered with the pains for most two weeks. When I got Cuticura Soap and Ointment I would wash with Cuticura Soap and put the Cuticura Ointment on and they soon quit itching and burning. Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured me in a little over a week." (Signed) Miss Pearl Davis, June 20, 1913.

Although the Cuticura Soap and Ointment are most successful in the treatment of eczema of the skin, scalp, hair and hands, they are also most valuable for everyday use in the toilet, bath and nursery, because they promote and maintain the health of the skin and hair from infancy to age. Sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 22-p. skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

EP Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

FAVORS HIGHER RATES.

Our Auto Manufacturer Who Heaves in Railroads' Necessities.

Since it appears to be the open season for objections from automobile manufacturers to the proposed increase in freight rates authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission, and several have already entered strenuous objections to the ruling, it is noteworthy that a big business man is more or less of a novelty. However, there is at least one man prominent in the motor car industry who not only upholds the increased rate, but makes public acknowledgment to that effect. This man is John N. Willys, president of the Willys-Overland Company, of Toledo, Ohio, head of half a dozen other big companies and the second largest manufacturer of automobiles in the world. Mr. Willys recently wrote to the Federal commission, in effect as follows:

"After considering from every angle the matter now before your honorable body, pertaining to the general increase in rates, I am constrained to write and express to you my belief in the advisability of such action. I am convinced that conditions warrant it and that carterage to the larger revenue for the service they perform."

"So I would respectfully ask to be placed on record as not only not objecting to the increase, but as strictly advocating it, notwithstanding the fact that it will mean a large increase in the expenses of my company."

"I might add that the Willys-Overland Company and the several companies owned by it and myself, making parts for Overland cars, are, as you are doubtless aware, heavy shippers. The Willys-Overland Company alone ships and receives approximately 15,000 carloads per annum and pays freight charges on inbound carload shipments, exclusive of local haulage, considerably over $200,000 per annum."

DANDRUFFY HEADS BECOME HAIRLESS

Scalp Dries—Chokes Out the Hair and Prevents Its Growth.

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single grain and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will be silky, fluffy, lustrous, soft, and look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.
